As of this writing, there will be ceramics on Monday morning, sewing on Wednesday morning, and exercise classes on Wednesday afternoon. It is expected that there will be an art class, but the woman who will conduct it is out of town at present, so the day and time is uncertain. Meet the Neighbors

by Lucy Morgan

Ellen Kohler joined us in June and resides in 615. A Cleveland native, she lived in South Euclid and Lyndhurst during her marriage. She learned about our happy home from a former neighbor who is now a resident. She is familiar with the area and is happy to be here.

Ellen was educated at Victory Park School, St. Gregory's, Notre Dame Academy, and Brush H.S. She began her career as a legal secretary, one lawyer later became Attorney General. After raising her family of three boys and two girls she returned to work. She is now retired.

One son lives in Hawaii and one in New York; the others are nearby. She also has the enjoyment of five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Ellen is an avid reader and a Life Master bridge player, which provided her the opportunity for lots of travel, and a great Indians fan. Welcome, Ellen; maybe you could organize a bridge game here at your new home.

The new resident in 623 is Harris Rosewater, who moved here in July. He was born in Cleveland and graduated from John Hay H.S. He served time in the Army Air Force in WWII, and then lived at Shaker Square and in Euclid prior to coming here, on the advice of friends, to whom he is grateful.

Harris had a diverse business career, owning a dry cleaning store and operating three different restaurants, as well as selling men's clothing for Sterling, Lindner, and Davis department store, and working for a manufacturing firm before his retirement. He has a son, grandson and great-grandson in the Phoenix area. He has traveled extensively and likes poker and reading. Hi, Harris; welcome!

Thanks, Lucy

From Creamettes

Pasta di Genoa with Turkey Meatballs

Penne Rigate means "pencil-shaped with ridges," and Penne Lisce means "pencil-shaped and smooth."

- 8 oz. Mostaccioli, cooked as directed
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup ground turkey
- $\frac{1}{2}$ dry Italian-seasoned bread crumbs
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg slightly beaten
- 2 T Chicken bouillon granules
- 1 (26 oz.) jar pasta sauce

In a bowl, combine turkey, crumbs, Parmesan, egg, and bouillon; mix well. Shape into 1-inch meatballs. In large saucepan, combine pasta sauce and meatballs; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 20 minutes or until meatballs are thoroughly cooked, stirring occasionally. Serve with hot mostaccioli.

4 to 6 servings

Creamettes also suggests you use shells, rotini, and penne rigate as alternate pastas for this menu, and hopes you will use their brand of pasta, Classico Spicy Tomato and Pesto Pasta Sauce, Sorrento Parmesan Cheese, Wyler's bouillon granules, and the Eggland brand eggs.

Bon appetit!

(Editor's note: This concludes our series of 30 minute recipes from Borden's Creamettes division. We hope you have enjoyed them. It also means we need more recipes, so, if you have a favorite, send it along by all means. Thanks.)

To a Thinker

The last step taken found your heft
Decidedly upon the left.
One more would throw you on the right.
Another still — you see your plight.
You call this thinking, but it's walking.
Not even that, it's only rocking,
Or weaving like a stabled horse:
From force to matter and back to force,
From form to content and back to form,
From norm to crazy and back to norm,
From bound to free and back to bound,
From sound to sense and back to sound.
So back and forth. It almost scares
A man the way things come in pairs.
Just now you 're off democracy
(With a polite regret to be)
And leaning on dictatorship;
But if you will accept the tip,
In less than no time, tongue and pen,
You'll be a democrat again.
A reasoner and good as such,
Don't let it bother you too much
If it makes you look helpless, please,
And a temptation to the tease.
Suppose you've no direction in you,
I don't see but you must continue
To use the gift you do possess,
And sway with reason more or less.
I own I really never warmed
To the reformer or reformed.
And yet conversion has its place
Not halfway down the scale of grace.
So if you find you must repent
From side to side in argument,
At least don't use your mind too hard,
But trust my instinct — I'm a bard.

— Robert Frost

Wednesdays to Remember

Wednesdays, July 25, was ISDA night at the Jake, (Jacobs Field, that is). A jovial crowd of residents and members attended a wonderful Indians game, were welcomed by a message on the scoreboard, ate sumptuously in the food court, and watched the Tribe beat their Central Division rival Chicago White Sox, 7 -- 5.

The next Wednesday was the VS picnic, with burgers and dogs, watermelon and baked goods. Good fun!!

From St. Francis of Assisi's Bulletin

If we want to live the abundant life Jesus came to bring, we need to practice living in the present moment. At the end of each day, why not glance back over your day to see if you've been a good companion to the moments that have passed. What was the first thing that you saw when you stepped out of your door this morning? Do you remember? Does anything stand out as special from this day? What colors did you see? Were there any conflicts? If so, how did you handle them? What stories unfolded as you moved through the day? What did you have for lunch? Did you taste it? With whom did you eat lunch? Did the conversation enrich you? Name one piece of the conversation that you remember. What happened that gave you a sense of happiness today? What do you recall of beauty? Was there a little prayer in your day? How does it still resonate with you at this moment?

Finally, what did you touch today? Name one thing you remember touching. The way we pick things up, the way we touch and hold things in our hands, says much about our ability to live at present.

It's the simple things that teach us best. When we miss those moments, we are missing life. Life enfolds us whether we receive it or not. Life is a whole string of "nows" knit together with friendship and songs, heartaches and tears, fears and courage, passion and compassion, depression and elation, patience and impatience. So don't miss life: take up your life and walk.

The teacher admonished the little boy for swearing on the playground. As she turned away she said, "At least he doesn't know what it means." He said, "Yes I do! It means the car won't start!"

September feels like the beginning of the year to school children with all the new teachers and new learning challenges. At Villa Serena we begin our activities anew with the same happy anticipation.

Sally Kinney had taught sewing classes at The Villa since 1977. She has memories of beautiful bazaar items sewn and sold long ago and the lovely ladies that made them. Students sew adult and childrens' clothing, make alteration and repairs, and do quilting and holiday decorations. All skill levels are welcome and help is provided. Sally believes you can become creative and create your own wearable art.

Eleanor Havel has taught ceramics class for over ten years and speaks fondly of the many happy hours spent creating holiday pieces as well as everything from angels and unicorns to owls and ducks, and even porcelain dolls. Eleanor says ceramics is simple to do and plenty of fun.

Susan D' Amore brings twenty years of knowledge to our exercise classes. She presents a low-impact program of fitness for all older adults. Susan uses music and light weights and makes classes fun as well as beneficial. She encourages everyone to maintain strength and flexibility throughout life.

Our dinner and dancing programs begin September 14th with a Villa favorite Mike Jacobs to start the season on the right note. Mike and his merry men always provide a grand time.

Welcome back Rich D'Amato for a night of fine food and music September 28th. Rich has a large repertoire of dance tunes for many nationalities as well as plenty of old time favorites. Don't miss either of these fun evenings.

Villa Serena has maintained the quality and prices of our dinners for three years. We must be able to cover costs and maintain the quality and quantity of our food and so have raised the price of a fine dinner and good music by only fifty cents

Be sure to not miss Brown Bag Bingo Thursday September 20th. Pack a lunch and join your friends for a fun-maybe lucky-afternoon.
